JRAW 3v3TagTables

2. Three Minute Warning

1SvS 14:20.73 73 See next page for details.

◆DudleyDeathDrop-ThroughTable; Good out, good action throughout, with some errors, light drive, finished well.

Elements were good here given the brawling nature of this one. No added effect aside from the high spots, but that served well enough. Three really glaring errors in this one and not surprisingly, two were by Hardy, and the other was by Rosie, but was more forgivable. Still, match held to a good standard and the reunion finish was a nice touch.

1. Jamie Noble w Nidia v 2. Billy Kidman

SMP Singles

WWE Cruiserweight Championship-G2

2SvS 7:29.41 81 2-1-1-E-2-1*2*-2-Mx-1-2-1*Mx-2

ShootingStarPress-Pin; Good start, action and speed good overall, good spots, held quality level, closed good.

For the basics, good action and good speed all around. For the extras, some well executed spots that heightened interest. The standout here was Noble's DDT of Kidman using the turnbuckle. Too much interference for tastes detracts some, but not enough to take this match out of the somewhat strong category. Here's to more.

1. Victoria v 2. Trish Stratus

JRAW HardcoreSingles

Women's Championship-G1

3SvS 7:01.47 79 (03:28) 1-Mx-1-1-2-2-1-2-1-2-Mx-1

SnapSuplex-Pin; Broke well good weapon usage throughout, effortful, with effect, no drive, closed good enough.

A good quality contest, especially considering the potential for disaster in the hardcore setting. Save maybe one or two points, generally good use of the weaponry here and some good intermittent points of action. As for effect, cannot remember the last time a woman bled in a match, albeit very little here. Best women's match this year to date.

1. Big Show v 2. Brock Lesnar w Paul Heyman

SMP Singles

WWE Championship-G1

4SvS 4:19.82 31 (01:67) Mx-1-2-2-2*1

ChokeslamOntoChair-Pin; Out OK, some impressive point amidst light action, somewhat predictable finish.

Merits of this match were limited, but this did have some worth. Liked Lesnar's persistence on Big Show which culminated in a few good suplexes and one amazingly precise F5. Heyman's turn was somewhat predictable. Furthermore, the match was too short for the stakes and the action too light and so cannot give this too much credit.

1. Eddie Guerrero and Chavo Guerrero v 2. Chris Benoit an Kurt Angle v

SMP TriangleEliminationTag

3. Edge and Rey Mysterio

5SvS 19:26.33 98 See next page for details.

ElPassoLasso-Submission; Started good, paced well, quality exchanges held, with added effect, with drive to fin.

A lot of things to admire about this match. Basic action and exchanges held to a good (and somewhat great) standard under quite the good pace. Like Chavo planting the belt on Angle to further dissension between him and Benoit for effect and possibly a match down the line. Not to the 105 expectation line, but definitely a match of strong caliber.

1. Rob Van Dam v 2. Triple H w Ric Flair v 3. Chris Jericho v 4. Booker T v

5. Kane v 6. Shawn Michaels

6SvS 39:21.26 96 See next page for details.

SweetChinMusic-Pin; Good action mostly, speed suitable for type, some spots to bind, no drive, closed fair/gd.

An intriguing match that did well demonstrate the borrowed elements as Bischoff said it would. Not a lot of speed to this, but that was expected and dismissible. Action held good and match had a few good spots. Liked how they made good use of the steel and chamber glass as well. Misses best of the night but a strong contest indeed.

SHOW ASSESSMENT: Save for the fourth match, all matches delivered well enough and show had some slight help from the non-match pieces. A strong PPV overall.

RATINGS: A figure assigned to a match based on balancing a match's elements such as start/break, pace, progression, psychology, mechanics, execution of move sets, key spots, and finish against the amount of time it is given (Minutes with the most relative quality are given primary emphasis) as an assessment of performance. Scale is adjusted to increase requisites for achieving higher ratings such as those in the 90s, 100s, and higher.

CLOSING NOTES:

1. I could not say my confidence was too strong in the PPV throughout. First there were the audio problems at the beginning, at least for me.
2. Continuing that trend of problems, well see the first match and hear as Rico says "C'mon Jeff C--Dammit!"
3. And for a non-match error, Stacy at The World not only did not seem live, but they screwed up the cue to that one.
4. Kidman's music used to be good, then it got bad, now it is worse.
5. On the plus side, however, Jericho has a shiny new tag title belt to cling to.
